

A cyber attack in Saudi Arabia failed to cause carnage, but the next attempt could be deadly

At a time when the world faces a dangerous escalation in cyber warfare, a series of assaults on petrochemical companies in Saudi Arabia – possibly backed by nation states – has caused alarm

Nicole Perloth , Clifford Krauss | Wednesday 21 March 2018 06:00 |

Click to follow
The Independent

Computers crashed at sites including Sadara Chemical Company, a joint venture between the oil and chemical giants Saudi Aramco and Dow Chemical (Sadara)

Independent

March 2018

Energy producer Suncor admits 'cyber security incident'

HOWARD SOLOMON

JUNE 26, 2023

Image from Petro-Canada

Global News

June 2023