Millions of students' personal data stolen in major education breach

by Pieter Arntz | May 6, 2026

Instructure, the company behind the Canvas learning management system (LMS), confirmed a cyber incident and subsequent data breach affecting its cloud-hosted environment.

The ShinyHunters ransomware group claims it is behind the attack and says it stole roughly 275 million records tied to students, teachers, and staff.

Critical Infrastructure: The Next Cyber-Attack Target

Power and utilities companies need a risk-centric cybersecurity approach to face coming threats.

The way we think about cyber attacks changed in December 2015, when Ukraine experienced the first recorded power outage caused by a cyber attack. It didn't last long—between one and six hours, depending on the area—but it showed the government, industry, and the public how these attacks could affect the physical world. It's not just personal information and other sensitive data that's at stake. Critical infrastructure is now under threat.
